

Join us at the LeRoy Collins Leon County Public Library for an innovative workshop on digital storytelling facilitated by Dr Ned Stuckey-French from Florida State University. Participants of all ages will learn to use existing/free technology and their own tablets and cell phones to track plot lines, map character's journeys, write sequels, create mash-ups, and use animation to bring characters to life. Presentations made as a result of the workshop will be displayed on the Library's social media.

This page was printed from FloridaHumanities.org.